

Register Early for the How-To Convention

Workshops are slated and the Christian Education Task Force, under the leadership of Pastor Julie Jackson, is working on final details for the January 30 "How-To" Convention, to be held at the Tigard Church of God, 15670 SW 98th Avenue, Tigard, OR 97224.

This year's annual workshop, with the theme "Present for the Future", offers great opportunity for honing skills and networking with area ministries. Keynote speaker Rev. Handel Smith, of Anderson, IN, will address the general sessions and also lead one of the many workshops offered throughout the day.

In keeping with the healthy tradition, a variety of workshops are offered by area speakers and presenters, with attendees selecting areas of interest for three scheduled sessions. With something for everyone, workshops range from panel discussions to prayer-walking (dress for the weather). Here are just some of the titles/topics from which to choose:

- Finding Your Unique Purpose
- How to set up a transitional plan for change in pastoral leadership
- Love and Logic: Early Childhood made Fun
- How to make James 5:16 work in your church
- Understanding the Team Development Model in times of change and conflict
- Having Coffee with millennials
- Billy T. and the Case of the Missing Monkeys
- How to use Social Media to communicate and lead
- How to Create Effective Bulletin boards
- Q & A on Outreach

These workshops and several more are offered by Dr. Smith and area presenters, including: Deborah Loyd, Ph.D., David Shrout, District Pastor; Martin Shrout, Pastor at Holladay Park COG, Portland; Albert Kaufman, Gale Hency, retired pastor; Dennis and Georgia Miller, Serena Cline, WPC Alumni Director; Aaron McMurray, VP for Institutional Advancement, Mt. Tabor Campus; Matt Ingalls, COG pastor Newberg; Joe Tira, COG pastor, Longview; Connie Shrout, elementary teacher; and Tim Townley, Portland Outreach Ministries.

Early registration is encouraged, as the task force works with the host church to make appropriate space available for each session.

Freedom Sunday 2016: Plan Now!

by Church of God Ministries

Last year the charge was given, and you responded. Thank you! It has been said that perhaps more than any other church-wide initiative, CHOG TraffickLight has mobilized the Church of God to work together in unity to accomplish a single goal. As we've continued to make Jesus the subject of who we are why we do what we do, we're determined more than ever to champion that which moved the heart of Jesus when he walked this earth. In Luke 4:18-19, Jesus quotes the prophet Isaiah's proclamation of freedom for the captives. Motivated by the heart of Jesus, the Church of God rallied together to raise more than half of our million-dollar goal. Now it's time to finish the job. On Valentine's Day 2016 (February 14), Church of God congregations will observe Freedom Sunday once again, and once again, we'll rattle the very gates of hell.

We know the need is greater than ever. We've reflected on the biblical mandate to put our faith into action. Pastors, lay leaders, and churches are urged to join the effort to fight against the pervasive evil of human trafficking. We've made participation accessible for every church by providing a wealth of free, downloadable resources at our website. Prayer, worship, and sermon ideas are at your fingertips, as well as promotional tools, statistics, and Bible study material.

Register your church at www.CHOGTraffickLight.org/FreedomSunday. There you'll find everything you need to make this year's Valentine's Day less about candy and roses, and more about God's unconditional love for the oppressed and enslaved.

Imagine what the Lord can do through his people if we are only willing to say Yes. Love for the unloved. Hope for the hopeless. Freedom for the captive. We've experienced the Good News of Christ, and now it's time to pass it on. Will you join us?

Register and prepare for Freedom Sunday 2016 at www.CHOGTraffickLight.org/FreedomSunday.

Door to Freedom Opens for Victims of Trafficking, Exploitation in Germany

by Carl Stagner, COG Ministries

It's been a long and challenging journey to reach this point, but by God's grace, they have. Pink Door, a new ministry of the Three Worlds team of Global Strategy, is about to launch. The long-term recovery shelter will safely house women transitioning out of sexual exploitation and trafficking. But Pink Door is so much more than a temporary living arrangement. This international partner of CHOG TraffickLight is anticipating daily opportunities to minister to the whole person. In January, we'll celebrate what can happen when the Church of God commits to change the world for Christ's sake.

When Pink Door opens, it will house up to five women at a time, for six to nine months at a time.

*p.in*kdoor

The goal is to come alongside these women and support their goal of more independent living. As residents transition out of the shelter, more women will be given the opportunity to receive the blessings of Pink Door. The ministry will continue to have direct involvement in the lives of women who transition out, making it possible for up to fifteen women to be cared for by the eighteenth month of ministry. Pink Door will offer a day school where women will learn the basics of the German language and culture, math skills, awareness about health and addictions, and more. "Many of these women have been exploited since childhood," Rhonda Philips explains, "so the healing process does not happen overnight. It takes time. They are accompanied on their journey by a social worker, counselors, and caring volunteers."

As a missionary to Germany for Global Strategy, Rhonda has been on the front lines of the fight against sexual exploitation for many years. Her work with Café Neustart has proved transformational as it has provided a drop-in center for women in a part of Berlin known for the highest concentration of prostitution. The vitality of Café Neustart continues, but three years ago, it became clear that something more was needed. "In our attempts to assist women to exit sexual exploitation," Rhonda explains, "we saw the desperate need for a long-term recovery and transition program. Pink Door is our response to this great need."

The past year has been especially busy as details are finalized. Filing of legal paperwork, networking with government and non-government agencies, researching, fundraising, and training have all been a part of the process. The SAFoundation of Vancouver, Canada, has partnered with Pink Door, offering their twenty-seven years of experience through training and mentorship. "We are committed to good practice and professionalism, and vowed to take the time needed so that the women we serve will receive the best care possible," Rhonda reflects. "The tragedy of human sex trafficking and sexual exploitation of women is extremely complex and overwhelming; therefore, we need to support and network with one another to fight this battle. Coming together as a community to fight injustice is always the best way."

You have been a part of the vital support that has made Pink Door possible.

Yes, when you support CHOG TraffickLight, you join hands with Rhonda and so many others who are championing the cause of freedom for the enslaved. "TraffickLight has been a vital part of establishing Pink Door Berlin," Rhonda reflects. "These funds are providing more than half of our startup capital and support for three years. We are grateful for the dedication of the Church of God to join us in the fight against this catastrophic injustice in our world."

Freedom Sunday is February 14, 2016. Prepare with the help of CHOG TraffickLight at <http://chogtrafficklight.org/freedom-sunday/>.
