Dr. Lou Foltz
Guest Speaker

Dr. Lou Foltz, Emeritus Professor of Educational Psychology, has shared his teaching which blends faith with inquiry at Warner Pacific College for 38 years. He is a part of the Lynchwood Church of God faith community. He has a passion to help in the development of deeper sense reverence in believers and a more effective witness to those away from Christ. His investigations into the dynamics of faith, belief and understanding are to help fellow travelers recognize and appreciate the consistent presence of the Holy Spirit in their lives.

Dr. Foltz is frequently invited to preach and speak in local churches as well as to present brain-based learning and family systems workshops at local and national educational events. His messages reach internationally through annually teaching at Kazakh-American Free University in Ust'-Kamenogorsk, Kazakhstan. Dr. Foltz is an avid traveler having spent his summers travelling to 57 countries (so far) and visiting with people from an even greater number of cultures. His hobbies include oil painting and gardening, including his project to design and restore a riparian woodland on his homesite outside of Gresham.
